Intertwining couples and singles in Los Angeles break-up and make-up based on the pressures and expectations of Valentine’s Day. Strangers share a long conversation on an international flight; an elderly couple struggles as they care for their elementary school-age grandson, who is pining for a classmate and missing his mother; a schoolteacher is having an affair with a married doctor; a TV sports reporter gets the assignment to find romance in LA; and an “I Hate Valentine’s Day” dinner beckons the lonely and the lied to. Each relationship will sputter, are any worth saving? Can Cupid finish his work by midnight?
